3rd Amendment Workshop

BS7671:2008 Incorporating Amendment 3:2015

The publication of the latest version of BS7671 takes place on the 1st January 2015. This release will be the introduction of the third Amendment to the IET Wiring Regulations.

The enforcement of the content within this latest edition will be required for all electrical installation designs, construction and inspection and testing from the 1st July 2015. So you are given 6 months to revise the new regulations and make any necessary adjustments to your area of work and working methods.

Learners will gain a full understanding of the changes introduced to BS7671:2008.

What Does the Workshop Cover?

The workshop is broken down into two sections, a morning section where you will learn changes to parts 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 and an afternoon section where changes to parts 6 and 7 are explained.

Learners will cover the below topics:

- Why the regulations are updated
- Another change to the numbering system!
- Why none of us are competent anymore
- Documented risk assessments where RCDs may not be necessary for additional protection
- Why are all the Zs values changing - the Cmin factor
- Why plastic consumer units 'may' no longer be suitable in domestic installations
- Protection against overheating
- The EMC directive – Compatibility
- Wiring systems in escape routes
- New Section 557 - Auxiliary Circuits – what are they?
- Update to RCDs in bathrooms
- New Section 714 – Outdoor lighting installations
- New Section 715 – Extra-Low Voltage Lighting Installations
- Changes to the certification – Risk assessment and new inspection schedules

Train at your premises - Up to 10 people

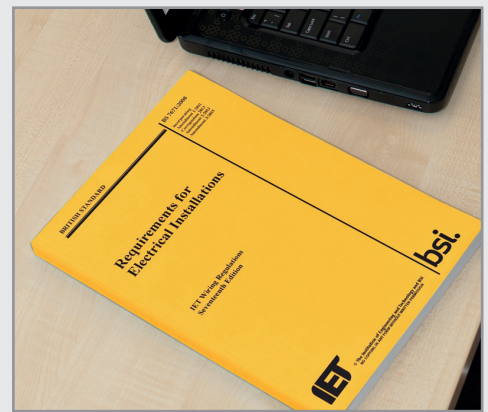

We can come to you with everything required to carry out training on your premises so that all you need to do is bring the learners to study the course.

Did You Know?

The final changes will be announced on November 1st. This workshop aims to cover the proposed changes made last year.
