

City & Guilds 2391-50

Level 3 Award in Initial Verification of Electrical Installations

Learn to perform initial inspection of electrical installations with this fully accredited City and Guilds Level 3 training course.

Upon completion of this course you will be fully prepared for completing initial verification on electrical installation work.

Who is the Course Suitable For?

This course is recommended for practising electricians who are yet to perform initial inspection on electrical installations, or those with previous experience in this field looking for an update on their previous training. The City and Guilds 2391-50 Initial Verification course is also suitable for those entering the industry from other disciplines (for example other engineering fields, or those who have been working in allied trades).

What is Covered in the Course?

City and Guilds 2391-50 is both a theory-based and a practical course; you can both expect to be in the classroom carrying out important theory based on initial verification and you can also expect to gain practical experience on our in-house electrical training bays.

Taught by our experienced, friendly and helpful electrical training tutors, we will guide you through all of the modules and prepare you as much as possible for the examinations and practical assignments you will have to complete at the end of the course.

The following sections are covered in the course:

- Understanding the requirements for initial verification of electrical installations
- Understanding safety management procedures when undertaking initial verification
- Understanding the requirements for the initial inspection of an electrical installation
- Understanding the requirements for testing electrical installations at initial verification
- Performing inspection and testing of electrical installations
